

making the scene

By MARTY JORDAN

If you've noticed a certain tension in the air and can't put a finger on what is causing it, let me be the first to tell you that it is 'senior fever,' better known as graduation time.

For the last month our house has been total bedlam with twin boys ready to jump out of their skin as they dream of the freedom pending June 2.

As a parent, I really hate to see this period in their life come to a close, and I know when they have time, they will look back on their days at Carmel High School as some of the finest times of their lives.

Also as a parent, I wish to take this opportunity to state that I am so proud of those two guys who will be walking up to receive their diploma Friday evening. They have worked and played hard, and they deserve all the credits they have earned.

To the parents of their many friends, boys and girls alike, let me also say that never have I met nicer young people than the ones Scott and Wally have brought to our home in the last four years. It has been a pleasure to know them. Carmel teachers and parents deserve a vote of thanks for turning out a group of seniors who, in truth, are champions in every way.

Congratulations to all of you who are leaving your childhood behind. Use your freedom as wisely as you have used your last four years and pride will follow you the rest of your lives. Good Luck!!
